The Great Commission demands a vivid world perspective. If you're out to sharpen your global vision, Trinity Evangelical Divinity School provides an exciting vantage point. At our School of World Mission and Evangelism, you'll learn from internationally renowned leaders in evangelical missiology. You'll choose from the most comprehensive offering of degrees available in world missions today. You'll take your place among students from thirty nations who share a common commitment to Biblical inerrancy. And you'll come away with a well-rounded global perspective that transcends cultural boundaries. If you're serious about expanding your world vision, take in the view from Trinity.

Our Faculty: Dr. Robert Coleman, Dr. David Hesselgrave, Professor John Nyquist, Dr. Edward Rommen, Dr. Ruth Tucker, Dr. Ted Ward and Dr. Timothy Warner. Our two newest faculty members are Dr. Paul Hiebert and Dr. Lois McKinney.

List of Degrees: Doctor of Missiology (resident research degree), Doctor of Ministry/Missions emphasis (professional project degree), Master of Divinity, Master of Arts, Master of Arts in Religion, Master of Theology.
Let Asbury Seminary's E. Stanley Jones School of World Mission and Evangelism Sharpen Your Worldview

At Asbury Seminary, we view the whole world as a mission field—from New York to New Guinea. That's why we've developed the only graduate school of mission which teaches missiological strategy for North America and Europe, as well as the "Two-Thirds" world. Our innovative faculty instruct from experience, not just theory. Students are trained to creatively engage all cultures with the gospel, including their own. At Asbury, you'll learn to see beyond borders, over obstacles and past prejudice to touch the total person and entire communities with the greatness of Christ. So if you're passionate about reaching the world—and your neighbor—prepare for service at Asbury.

Degree Programs: M.A. and Th.M. in World Mission and Evangelism; Doctor of Missiology and Doctor of Ministry.
